

PROTECTING THE BEEF HERD

Visitors Without Cattle Contact

Even without direct cattle contact, your actions on this operation could introduce disease causing agents through vehicle tires, equipment, and footwear.

ENTERING THE OPERATION

Make sure you have permission to enter this operation.

Respect the Line of Separation (LOS) between off-site and on-site traffic. Follow required biosecurity protocols when crossing the LOS.

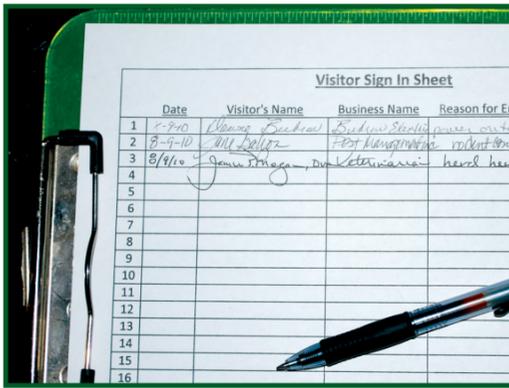

Drive and park in designated areas. Follow all posted signs.

EXITING YOUR VEHICLE

Wear clean footwear that can be cleaned if it becomes soiled with manure. If necessary, disposable boots may be provided for visitors.

Be prepared to sign a visitor's log, if available.

Avoid direct contact with cattle, cattle feed, manure, and other excretions. If cattle contact becomes necessary, follow required biosecurity protocols to avoid introducing or spreading disease.

EXITING THE OPERATION

Ensure equipment, clothing and footwear are not soiled before entering your vehicle to avoid cross-contamination between operations.

Leave trash generated on the operation behind.
